Labor Leader Says
LeFevre's Attitude
Injures Workers

Jerry Points at Record
in Denouncing Stand Against Labor' of Congressman

Unleashing a verbal attack against Congressman Jay LeFevre's anti-labor record in Congress, George E. Jerry, business agent of the Kingston Metal Trades Council, today said:

"Congressman LeFevre would be doing the Republican party a service if he would decline the nomination, and the Republican party would perform a similar service to the voters of the 30th Congressional District, if they declined to offer it to him again."

Any laboring man, union or otherwise, who votes in favor of Congressman LeFevre's re-election will be doing himself and his family a dis-service, Jerry declared.

Jerry's attack followed closely on the heels of Congressman LeFevre's defense of his vote in favor of the Case anti-strike bill, following President Truman's request for emergency labor legislation. The LeFevre statement appeared in Saturday's Freeman.

The prominent local labor leader took sharp exception to LeFevre's stand that the Case Bill is not an anti-labor bill, but an anti-strike measure.

Same as Profit Motive

"If the right to strike is taken from labor unions," Jerry pointed out, "it would have the same effect as if the profit motive were taken from management."

In his article, Jerry went on, "Congressman LeFevre states that the loss of a strike to the employees can never be recovered by them and that management's offer of wage increases should be accepted by the unions, and not referred to some government agency."

"Is the Congressman so naive," Jerry asked, "that he would expect labor to believe that management will continue to offer increases, if the right to strike is taken away from them?"

"While LeFevre's record shows that he has consistently voted against labor, and has twice voted in favor of drafting labor into the Army, at no time has the congressman proposed to draft management," Jerry said.

Got Jobs, Took Him Around

"The unions' record in local concerns during the war speak for themselves," Jerry said.

"During the war when local shipyards were closed, he said, 'the labor unions were successful in having additional work restored to the shipyards to keep the local men employed. At that time Mr. LeFevre suggested that labor should be drafted and transferred to other localities.'"

"Our efforts to secure work at that time," he added, "made it necessary for us to ask Congressman LeFevre for his assistance. I personally took the congressman to see the efforts that he did not know existed—one of them being the Washington office of the New York State Department of Commerce."

Bread Shortage
Affects Kingston
During Week-end

Kingston, for the first time in its recorded history, is in the grip of a bread shortage, and many homes in the city were without bread on the table on Saturday and Sunday.

A survey of the local bakers today developed the fact that many of them have but a three weeks supply of flour on hand, and that the bread shortage may continue for an indefinite period.

Today the bakers were rationing out the number of loaves delivered to the stores in the city, and are urging that families cut down on the number of loaves they use.

One of the large bakeries pointed out that the usual amount of bread supplied the stores in the city had been augmented by bread delivered by out of town bakers, but this supply of out of town bread has been greatly reduced during the past two weeks.

This curtailment of the supply of out of town bread, it was said, had placed an added burden on the Kingston bakers, whose supplies of flour had been cut to 75 per cent of the normal supply.

All of the local bakers who have been supplying the stores of the city with bread are now forced by lack of flour to limit the number of loaves delivered daily. In some cases the number of loaves delivered has been cut 50 per cent.

One of the large supply houses who sell flour to the bakers of the city said today that the mills were doing all that was possible to alleviate the situation, and there were but slight hopes that the amount of flour available would be slightly increased during July.

In its issue of May 24, the American Independent Baker, a magazine devoted to the baking trade, said editorially "Between now and July few of the flour mills are likely to be in operation because of their inability to secure wheat while the government is paying 30 cents a bushel premium over the ceiling price which the mills have been permitted to pay."

"This means that bakers can depend upon receiving little or no flour until well along in July, and that they will start out with no inventory and must begin now to adjust their operations to the new basis."

Local bakers said today that government rationing of flour is to be continued for another year. Starting July 1, flour mills produce each month for domestic use not more than 85 per cent of the amount of flour which they delivered in the same month of 1945.

"This means," said the bakers, "that we cannot hope to receive more than 85 per cent of the flour we used last year, and we may get less."

They pointed out that lack of

Callanan Contract
Gives Wage Boost

The International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers Union of America, A.F.L., Local 17, today signed a contract with the Callanan Road Improvement Co. of South Rondout, stipulating a general wage increase of approximately 19 per cent for the union employees.

Affiliates of the Teamsters and Operation Engineers Union also are affected by the contract which is retroactive to January 1. Approximately 35 employees are affected.

Among the stipulations are a standard 40-hour week, 8-hour, 5-day week, with time and a half for everything over 8 hours or 40 hours and double time on Sundays and holidays; a week's vacation with pay and six paid holidays.

The contract which has been negotiated for since early January is the first overall pact signed by the Callanan concern.

The contract was signed by Frederick W. Dusing, business agent, and George Baxter, secretary-treasurer of Local 17. Keith Callanan who represented management. Attorneys Frank Martucci and Charles de la Vergne represented the union in the negotiations.

Accused Japanese Are Given
More Time for Their Defense

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—The international trials of Japan's accused war-makers opened today with the tribunal blocking their last-minute efforts to escape prosecution—but the 26 prisoners were allowed 10 days more in which to prepare their defense.

The court, meeting in a glare of floodlights in the grim war ministry building where many of the defendants are accused of plotting Japan's disastrous plunge into aggressive war, will be reconvened at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow (7:30 p. m. today, E.S.T.) to hear the prosecution's opening statement.

Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan will deliver a 15,000 word condemnation of Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and the other Japanese leaders accused of starting the Pacific war. The presentation probably will last at least five hours.

Keenan, who has been in Japan six months, will take advantage of the 10-day recess by requesting permission to make a hurried trip to the United States to take care of personal matters. His aides, meanwhile, would begin the presentation of evidence. He has not informed General MacArthur of his desire but the Allied commander was expected to approve Keenan's trip.

Tomorrow, the 10 black-robed Allied justices may also announce at that time their decision on two other defense motions heard in today's long session: whether to dismiss the cases against two additional defendants absent because of illness; and whether to accept as facts certain historic events.

Maritime Workers Make Appeal Abroad
For Help in Shipping Strike; Hopeful
Note Is That Talks Are ContinuingHouse Committee Calls 4 Labor
Leaders to Air Opposition
To Truman's Emergency Bill

Green, Murray, Lyon and Brown Will Be Heard at Capitol

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky said today after a White House call that he had no idea what President Truman intends to do about the Case Strike Control Bill.

The measure, imposing curbs on labor unions, has been in Mr. Truman's hands since Congress completed action on it last Wednesday. White House Press Secretary Charles Ross told reporters the President is considering it "from all angles."

Mr. Truman has until midnight, June 12, to sign or veto the legislation, Ross said, adding that the President was getting a lot of advice "pro and con."

A letter from CIO President Philip Murray, calling for a veto of the measure, is on the President's desk but he hasn't had an opportunity to read it, Ross reported.

William K. Jackson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, called at the White House meanwhile to urge the President to sign the bill.

Saying he spoke on behalf of the Chamber, he told the President the measure "is definitely in the public interest." His statement, contained in a letter to the President, asserted that congressional action on the bill "reflects a strong public demand for action to minimize work stoppages."

Barkley told reporters that he and other congressional leaders who visited the White House did not discuss with Truman the Senate's action in knocking out of the President's emergency labor legislation a provision for drafting strikers in government-seized facilities.

That bill bounced back to the House—straight into a rump hearing called to air organized labor's opposition to it.

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Truman's emergency strike control bill came bouncing back to the House today, straight into a rump hearing called to air organized labor's opposition to it.

Sixteen members critical of the measure—both in its original strike-draft form and as modified by the Senate—invited four top union chiefs to the unusual 4 p. m. (E.S.T.) session.

They also called upon all their colleagues to attend the gathering. Representative De Lacy (D-Wash.) said was designed to "stem all this hysteria."

The House passed the measure 306 to 13 a week ago Saturday less than two hours after it was requested by Mr. Truman. The legislators shoved it through under virtually unprecedented procedure which by-passed committee consideration. The Senate passed the bill early last Saturday morning. It was cleared through the inter-state committee in that chamber, but no hearings were held.

Invited to testify today are President William Green of the American Federation of Labor; President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations; secretary-treasurer A. E. Lyon of the Railway Labor Executive Association; and President Harvey Brown of the International Association of Machinists.

Would Give Powers

As passed by the House, the bill would give the President broad powers to seize essential plant and work stoppages occur and to draft individuals necessary to run them. The Senate deleted the draft authority, but left in the power to take over industries.

Both bills require union and management leaders to take "affirmative" action to halt work stoppages in plants seized by the government.

The measure now is awaiting House action again, but Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) said no conclusive decision is expected until at least Thursday. At that time the House may decide whether to accept the Senate version or send the two drafts to a conference committee to work out a compromise.

Mr. Truman told Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.) Saturday that the Senate emasculated his bill. Key House members who have controlled previous labor legislation declared, however, that they doubted whether Congress would agree to anything stronger than Edgar Warren (left), government conciliator, talks with Frank J. Taylor of New York, representing 39 shipping companies which act as agents for the War Shipping Administration, concerning a statement made by Taylor in Washington on wage demands of C.I.O. seamen. Taylor issued his statement before entering a session at the Labor Department, seeking to negotiate a settlement in the threatened June 15 maritime strike. A big stumbling block in the dispute is whether a 40-hour week is possible on merchant ships.

State Luther Leaguers
Will Convene at Governor Clinton

THE REV. F. L. GOLDNICK

The annual convention of the New York State Luther League scheduled in Kingston on June 7, 8 and 9 will be one of the largest in the history of the church group.

Approximately 500 delegates representing 465 churches from Niagara Falls to Greenpoint, L. I., will convene in Kingston, at headquarters at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The convention is the first held in this city in nearly twenty years.

Trinity Lutheran Church will be the host church with the Rev. Frank Goldnick serving as pastoral adviser for the convention.

The problem of housing the delegates is serious, a committee spokesman said today and all local hotels are reported solidly booked for the three-day period. An appeal has been issued to all local boarding houses and private homes that can accommodate delegates. All persons having rooms to rent for the convention period are requested to notify Mrs. Gippert at 509.

Offices at Parley
in Auditorium

The unofficial Republican County Convention will be held on Saturday, June 29, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. The Republican caucus for the selection of delegates to the convention will be held throughout the city and county on Saturday, June 22.

Delegates to the convention will recommend candidates for the offices of representatives in Congress, state senator, assemblyman, county treasurer, district attorney and coroner.

The congressman will represent the 30th congressional district which comprises the counties of Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Schoharie and Ulster.

The state senator will represent the 34th senatorial district, which comprises the counties of Delaware, Greene, Sullivan and Ulster.

Jay W. Rifenbary of this city and Orson S. Haynes of Seager have announced their candidacy for the Republican designation for the office of county treasurer.

Mr. Rifenbary has represented the Second Ward in the Board of Supervisors for a number of years and was majority leader for two terms. Mr. Rifenbary did not run for re-election in 1945.

For many years Mr. Rifenbary has been actively identified with the Republican Party following closely in the footsteps of his father, T. J. Rifenbary, who for a long period was a member of the county legislature. Active in the civic affairs of the city, he has served as a member of the civil service board and the board of public welfare.

A native of Kingston, Mr. Rifenbary is carrying on the building contracting business established by his father.

Mr. Haynes, whose candidacy was announced in Saturday's issue of The Freeman, has just completed 12 years of service as supervisor of the town of Hardenbergh. He has served as chairman of the board for two years.

May Recommend LeFevre

Congressman Jay LeFevre of New Paltz is expected to be recommended as the Republican candidate for re-election from the Thirtieth Congressional District at a meeting of the congressional district committee to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Saturday, June 8, at 11 o'clock.

That committee, which includes Ulster, Dutchess, Columbia, Greene and Schoharie county chairmen and two delegates from each of the counties, will recommend to the enrolled voters its choice for the office. At the Republican unofficial county convention to be held here on June 29, candidates for county office will be recommended and that convention will undoubtedly endorse the action of the district congressional convention.

Ferry Carries 3,145
Vehicles in 15 Days

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry began operating on May 16 and from then until May 31, a total of 3,145 vehicles and 4,508 foot passengers were ferried across the river, according to the Bridge Authority.

Figures for Saturday and Sunday were not available, but it was said that owing to the heavy rain traffic on the ferry was extremely light.

Its Own Way of Operation

The New York State Bridge Authority may use tolls of the Mid-Hudson, Bear Mountain and Rip Van Winkle Bridges to keep the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry in operation if the ferry does not produce sufficient revenues, according to a ruling by Attorney General Goldstein.

Chairman Robert Hoe of the Bridge Authority confirmed that the attorney general had advised the Authority it could use "funds" other than ferry fares to support operation of the ferry. "Up until the last few days," said Mr. Hoe, "the ferry has done better than 'break even.'"

The Bridge Authority, said Mr. Hoe, is making every effort to keep the ferry self-supporting, and, he added, "we hope we are going to achieve that objective."

The attorney general and State Comptroller Moore, said Mr. Hoe, have taken the position that "the Bridge Authority was mandated by the Legislature to operate the ferry, and it is our duty to keep it in operation."

In discussing the question of night ferry service, Mr. Hoe said such service would mean the use of a second crew and that would

Criticism of President
Is Renewed; Says
He 'Jeopardized' Any
Peaceful Settlement40 Hours Sought
One of Basic Points
Sought Is Shorter
Work Week

Washington, June 3 (AP)—America's maritime labor crisis took on a broader international aspect today.

C.I.O. maritime leaders, loosing still another critical blast at President Truman, appealed simultaneously to workers in other lands for help in their shipping strike scheduled June 15.

In this atmosphere, wage and hour negotiations moved slowly along at the Labor Department. C.I.O. unions and ship operators prepared to meet again today.

In the absence of any official report of progress, the one encouraging thing in the situation appeared to be this:

Talks are continuing. Collective bargaining has not broken down.

Meanwhile, something new in labor disputes occurred last night when Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, kings of the C. I. O.'s Maritime Union, sent a cablegram to the World Federation of Trade Unions at Paris.

In that message they renewed their criticism of Mr. Truman's assertion that he will operate the merchant ships with the armed forces if necessary. They said the President had "seriously jeopardized" the possibilities for a peaceful settlement.

And they asked the W.F.T.U. in the event of a strike to deliver any merchant vessels manned by the U. S. government to be "scab ships." They also asked for any other help the W.F.T.U. could give.

Affiliated With W.F.T.U.

The C.I.O. is affiliated with the W.F.T.U. (the A.F.L. isn't). Also affiliated are millions of union members in Russia, Britain, France and other countries. The W.F.T.U. Executive Council has a meeting scheduled in Moscow on June 16-18.

It was not clear today whether the W.F.T.U. would—or could—influence the dock workers of Europe, for example, to refuse to load and unload American ships.

Bridges and Curran are co-chairmen of the "committee for maritime unity." This organization was formed three weeks ago by C.I.O. unions and one independent union. Four of the C.I.O. unions and the independent group have voted a joint strike.

The most important unions in the group are Bridges' longshoremen—strong on the west coast—and Curran's National Maritime Union, which includes seamen of Atlantic, Gulf, and Great Lakes ports.

Up to now, all the negotiations at the Labor Department have involved the National Maritime union's demands on the Atlantic and Gulf ship operators. The union has demanded a 40-hour week for seamen—with overtime beyond 40 hours—and basic wage increases ranging from 22 to 35 cents an hour.

The seamen now work from 56 to 63 hours at sea and 44 hours in port.

Yesterday's negotiating session was devoted to the work week issue.

Edgar L. Warren, director of the U. S. Conciliation Service, telling reporters that ship operators have "not yet" offered a counter-proposal, implied they may do so. The operators have rejected a 40-hour week as "impossible."

Government "seizure" of the ships might have little meaning, since the government already owns around 80 per cent of the merchant marine fleet.

Predicts Bill's Passage

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky predicted today quick Senate passage of legislation providing for a year's extension of Selective Service and the drafting of "teen-agers." Barkley talked to reporters at the White House after he and Senator McKellar, House Speaker Rayburn and House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts conferred for an hour with President Truman on the draft bill, O.P.A. extension and other legislative matters.

No Travel Plans

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman has no out of town travel plans for June. Asked if this ruled out the possibility of a trip to Manila for the inauguration of Philippine independence on July 4, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that the Manila visit was "extremely tentative."

Wet Weather Hits Camporee;
About 250 Stay at Locality

Plenty of disappointment but little "growing" marked the week-end Camporee of the Ulster-Greene Council of Boy Scouts at Trinka's near Katsbaan. Friday, the opening day was fair and warm and the boys turned out in grand weather for what they had hoped would be a splendid week-end.

Saturday gave the Scouts plenty of opportunity to gain experience in "wet weather" camping. When the rain continued throughout the day many of them saw the prospect of a week-end program disappear and hundreds of them pulled up stakes during the afternoon and returned home.

It was estimated that approximately 700 Scouts had assembled. Earl Allyn, assistant scout executive,

Blake Foresees Top Ratings for City Governments

Rochester, N. Y., June 3 (AP)—The president of the New York State Conference of Mayors told the group's annual convention today that under a new plan of state aid municipalities would become "monuments of financial stability and good government."

Mayor Francis M. Blake of Albany, in a prepared address, asserted that although "municipal government has remained at a low level," the state's new health program, however, as "depriving cities of less than 50,000 and villages of all health regulatory and legislative powers if they elect to become members of the county health unit."

The health program, also enacted this year, provides that such cities and villages must join an "integrated" county health district to be eligible for state financial assistance.

Robert T. Lansdale, state social welfare commissioner, told the conference that the new system of welfare administration would lead the nation in offering "complete facilities for all types of public welfare services at a single, convenient office."

Fined for $150 for Fraud in Production Claim

Indicted for making fraudulent claim for payment of subsidy under the government's dairy production program, Cecil E. Sherman of Sabbathus, Maine, pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court on April 12, and was fined $150.

Sherman was charged with filing a subsidy application for milk to which water had been added, in support of a claim for payment under the government's dairy production program.

Sherman was arraigned before Judge John A. Peters, U. S. Attorney John D. Clifford, Jr., presented the case.

Evidence presented was obtained by special agents of the Compliance and Investigation Branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture operating under Leslie R. Horn, compliance officer of the northeast region.

87 Per Cent of Delaware County Dogs Vaccinated

Eighty-seven per cent of the 7,080 listed dogs in Delaware county have been vaccinated against rabies, according to figures compiled by Harold L. Newkirk, secretary of the county's rabies control council.

An appropriation of $5,000 by the county board of supervisors and cooperation of veterinarians made possible treatment of 5,957 dogs at free clinics, while 213 dogs were vaccinated privately, the owners paying the cost.

The anti-rabies campaign cost the county $3,703.61. It is understood that the final cost to the county will be slight, the state reimbursing the county 35 cents for each dog vaccinated in free clinics.

I.L.O. to Consider Minimum Wage for World Sea-Farers

By SIGRID ABNE

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Forty nations will gather at Seattle June 6 to tackle an extremely ticklish economic problem—a world minimum wage for merchant seamen.

The conference is called by the international labor office, one of the few pieces of League of Nations machinery still active and which now seems headed for United Nations membership. The basis for discussion will be a minimum wage of $64.56 a month for able seamen.

The Seattle debate will be the first time an official world gathering has ever discussed paying workmen in a single industry the same wages the world over. The seamen's unions of the world have put so much pressure on their governments that I.L.O. representatives here say they think the proposal may win.

The Seattle meeting plans to discuss several phases of the seafarers' working conditions—pay, hours, Social Security, food, vacations with pay and son on. It is scheduled to last three weeks. The United States is sending a delegation of 45 headed by Secretary of Labor Schwelb.

The conference will consider a proposal to band all the member I.L.O. nations to the world wage no matter what nation they sail for and without regard to race or color.

No Worry to Americans

That means no worry to American shipping companies in the United States, Australia, New Zealand or Canada. They all pay higher minimums. The United States pays the highest, $145 a month for able seamen and $127.50 starting.

Previous to the current negotiations only the Netherlands, in all Europe, approached the proposed minimum. Dutch companies paid $62.90 a month but have now settled for 18 pounds sterling ($72) a month. So have Sweden and France.

The United Kingdom was paying $56.49, with $36.28 for Chinese and only $18.07 for Indians. Their pay to Chinese is up now. India itself pays one of the world's lowest rates, $15.66 a month.

U. S. shipping companies have always been at a disadvantage because of world wage differences. They paid higher wages, had to charge higher rates and hence lost much business to other nations. So the U. S. delegation to Seattle is expected to battle for the world minimum proposal.

Such a plan is doubly important to the U. S. since right now it has more merchant ships than all the rest of the world together. The administration is determined to see that more American goods travel in American ships than since the days of the clippers.

ACTIVE WORK FOR PEACE

Demobilizing more than 150 volunteer nurses' aids, a mid-western hospital official expressed his profound gratitude to the women and told them the institution could not have functioned during the war years without them. A great army of men and women all over the country organized their households and their jobs so as to have time for important war work.

What are they doing now with that margin of time, those unsuspected efficiencies and abilities the war years developed in them? With the sudden end of hostilities, it was good merely to enjoy the leisure that followed. But that period is over. Are they to slip back into the former purposeless living, bridge parties for the women, business and golf for the men, cocktail parties, general absorption in the old round? The answer, for a great many, is probably, yes.

Can these people be mobilized only for war? If some device could be hit upon to inspire these same wartime volunteers to work for peace, what a contribution they could make! It is the next step in America's evolution—the fostering of national action for peace. Somehow, somehow this country's men and women of all ages, creeds, races and class, as they worked together in war, must rally into positive, aggressive volunteering for peace.

Only eight per cent of the people read books, according to a recent survey. While many books are trashy and ephemeral, it is still true that the leaders of the nation come from the ranks of the eight per cent. Did we hear a voice from the rear, "Get 'em a better book"?

PUBLIC EXECUTIONS

Karl Frank, destroyer of Lidice, publicly hanged by the Czechs, has added one more to the list of Nazis and Quislings who have been executed in the open for all to see.

Executions used to be public almost everywhere. The theory was that they showed the wages of sin and taught a useful moral lesson. In practice they became public outings, liberally attended by dispensers of fruit, drinks and handbills giving grisly accounts of the criminal's deeds. People went not to be improved but to have a good time. That is why most civilized communities gave up public executions.

Presumably one reason for the public execution of Frank was to prove to all that he was dead. The Czechs want no legend of a living Frank to grow up. Also they probably discouraged the sideshow and honkey-tonk activities that used to accompany public executions. Otherwise any moral lesson they may hope to inculcate would be hopelessly lost.

Strict parents should not always assume that a boyish scrape means that their offspring is headed for jail. Half a century ago a student at the Amherst Agricultural College in Massachusetts was dismissed because he pulled a teacher's whiskers. That lad has just died as Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone.

CANADA BECKONS

Despite the temporary dampening to plans by the rail tie-up, Americans are planning to travel this summer. Canada is expecting a lot of them—25,000,000, according to an enthusiastic tourist bulletin. Even during the war, Canada has managed to improve many highways so that now it will be possible to drive from coast to coast, a distance of over 4,000 miles, on good roads. There are thousands of miles of national parks, including primitive areas in Manitoba and the Banff National park of the Central Rockies.

Canada is hanging out the welcome sign to American visitors, stressing the ten per cent premium on American money in the exchange rate; the fact that gasoline is unrationed and food generally plentiful. This tourist trade is good business, of course, for Canada. But it means good friendship, too. The more different peoples can see of each

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

A DYING INDUSTRY

There is this to be understood about the coal industry in both the United States and Great Britain—it is dying. Coal, once the very heart of industry, each year grows less essential. Already many railroads are electrified or are using diesel engines; ships at sea are increasingly using oil; the airplane never used coal. Home-heating by oil and natural gas increases; soon electricity, perhaps electronics will provide all the light and heat required for household uses. Heavy industries increasingly turn to hydro-electric power; if coal becomes too expensive, such power as TVA provides will find more general usage in all industries.

The question arises as to whether John L. Lewis won a victory for his men. It is estimated that the cost of producing coal has increased more than 150 per cent since the war started. The correctness of the estimate does not matter for the increase is obvious. In all but a few industries, coal is no longer essential and therefore faces competition on a price basis with heat and power-producing substitutes. As the price rises, the law of diminishing returns sets in. Coal, except perhaps for steel-making, is on the way out.

On the other hand, John L. Lewis, the coal industry and the steel industry face the grim fact that coal miners must be extraordinarily well paid to work in this industry at all. It is so unattractive a vocation that it is not at all impossible that before long coal miners will be among the highest paid workers in the country, if there are to be any coal miners. John L. Lewis's welfare fund is an indirect wage and a direct increase in the cost of production.

Many coal miners have already left this hazardous industry for other fields. Among steel, automobile, and rubber tire workers are many men who once held membership cards in John L. Lewis's union. They now work above ground, under more wholesome conditions.

In the old days, the coal operators recruited labor in Europe. Each year, they would import Hungarians, Slovaks and other Europeans to fill their complements of mine workers. That immigration ended with World War I. The American-born sons of these immigrants took to our schools and high schools and came out with other trades and ambitions.

The decreasing labor force has been met by increased use of machinery, but even the mechanization of mining has not solved the problem of a shortage of labor and therefore the need to pay increasingly high wages to miners. And higher wages means higher prices for a competitive commodity of decreasing utility. It was assumed that the development of plastics and ersatz commodities would ultimately increase the use of coal. Yet it is now obvious that molecular science finds other bases than coal in this type of production.

And to cap it all, no one can today even indicate what atomic fission will do to coal. The atomic scientists speak pro and con about everything, but it is becoming clear from all their confusing reports that in time—and not too distant—there will be less concern with bombs and more with the ways of peace. They will apply their knowledge of power and heat to peacetime production. They will capture the force of the split atom and employ it in a tremendous, overwhelming utilization of natural energy where today coal is used.

This, more or less, is the picture that the coal industry, operator and labor union face. John L. Lewis and his successors will have to ask for more wages constantly or there will be no miners. In Great Britain, the mines have been nationalized, but it is doubtful whether that will solve the problem an iota. In Russia, slave labor is employed in the mines to some extent; in some mines they employ incentive payments under a speed-up system called Stakhanovism, but the results are trifling. The real trouble is that while coal is a dying commodity, it is not yet dead. And while it suffers from senility, it is a nuisance—but still sufficiently necessary to be a source of constant social disturbance. The adjustment to a non-coal era is slow and troublesome. THAT BODY OF YOURS

OVERWEIGHTS

It is known that 9 of every 10 overweights owe their overweight to eating too much food, that is, too much food for the need of his or her particular body. It is known also that about 1 in 20 are overweight because of the lack of activity of one or more glands (thyroid, pituitary, sex), and about 1 in 20 are overweight partly because of eating too much and partly because of lack of gland activity. This means then that 19 of every 20 overweights eat too much food.

Now, while it is easy for the physician to advise cutting down on the daily food intake, it is not easy for overweights to follow this advice because the majority have a good appetite. Because of this great desire for food physicians sometimes find it necessary to "dull" or reduce the appetite in order to rid the body of dangerous excess fat.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Drs. Leonora Hawirko, and P. H. Sprague, Edmonton, Alberta, report on the treatment of 162 cases of overweight. The patients were not selected although the majority of them came to the office for the purpose of reducing, some who came in with other complaints. They were advised to reduce as they were overweight. They were all overweight because they ate too much.

The routine treatment was (a) a daily diet of 1,100 calories, (b) cutting down on liquids and table salt and (c) benzedrine sulfate in a certain number of cases. Benzedrine sulfate depresses the appetite and increases desire for exercise.

Of the 162 patients only 72 persevered with the treatment for more than two months, the amount of weight loss varied in proportion to the number of pounds the patient was overweight. Those who were 100 pounds or more overweight lost 7.6 pounds per month. Those who were 75 pounds or more overweight lost 6.3 pounds per month, those 50 pounds or more lost 4.4 pounds per month, and those less than 50 pounds overweight lost 4.7 pounds per month. In only 4 of the 72 cases was the metabolism rate below normal.

There were only 7 failures; they were reduced less than 20 per cent of the number of pounds they were overweight.

Remember, all these cases were under medical supervision. Once the physician sees how benzedrine affects the patient he prescribes dose to be taken at home.

Editor, The Freeman:

My first Freeman came yesterday and it sure was as welcome as the birds of spring. I am sure that no paper was ever scanned more closely and it was with regret that I learned of the death of Leo Fennelly and with interest the promotion of Ernest Boss and Bill Palmer. It was sure a new sheet.

I am stationed in Strasbourg, France, in what is known as a processing point. The whole country side is covered by what is known as a searching team which gets all information possible on the location of isolated graves and the information is given to an exhumation team which raises the body and tries to establish identity. If they succeed it goes to an American Military Cemetery for interment. If not identified it comes to the processing point, and this is the only one in our section of Europe, and by scientific and anatomical methods we try to establish identity. The requirements of the government are extremely high and if we mark a body with a name it is positively the man named and no other. It is not unusual to spend three days to get the positive proof we need.

The work is painstaking but extremely interesting and we feel that we are doing a service to the people back home whose men have been lost killed in action but have not known where they are buried. Thanks for sending the paper. It sure was swell to get it.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of my favorite hobbies is attending amateur shows whenever I have the opportunity, and that is one of the reasons why from time to time in this column I have recalled to attention outstanding amateur performances in Kingston.

During February, 1929, there were three amateur shows that deserve remembrance. The first was on February 8, of that year, when the musical comedy "Aboard" was presented by high school students in the school auditorium.

Among the principals in the cast were Arthur Scott, Vivian Klotke, Alton Shadr, Marie Pfommer, Dolores Rist, Kenneth Hapley, Maude Hopper, Samuel T. Read, Frank W. Thompson, Jr., and Gordon Watts.

The same evening the three-act comedy drama, "Nora Wake Up" was presented in St. Mary's School by a group of young people.

Included in the cast were Kathryn Molyneux, Mrs. John Herrick, Zola Boss, Thomas Stenson, George Wunder, Mrs. Mary Lloyd, Joe Kelly and Mary Lloyd.

As I have repeated from time to time my favorite show is an old fashioned minstrel, and on February 11 and 12, 1929, Joyce Schrick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, presented a top notch minstrel in the auditorium of the Kingston High School.

Cliff Moore was the interlocutor, while the endmen were Zeke Boss, Frank Kearney, Vince Van Brant, Izzy Schwartz, Frank Outton, Edie Mitchell, Dick Obernauer and Eddie Barton.

Among the soloists were Billy DeKosky, Tommy Daly, James Sottile and Tommy Dolan.

There was a large chorus, and a fine olio which brought the show to a successful close.

For years one of Kingston's best known jewelers was Charles H. Safford, who died in 1928. The jewelry business with which he was associated for many years was established by his father, Charles B. Safford, in 1856, on Wall street.

Following the death of the father the business was carried on by the son, Charles H. Safford, and was moved to 310 Wall street, when Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., became a member of the firm, and the name was changed to Safford & Scudder.

Since the death of Mr. Safford the business has been successfully carried on by Mr. Scudder.

Mr. Safford found time from his jewelry business to take an active part in volunteer fireman affairs and for years was a member of Wiltwyck Hose Co.

He was always deeply appreciative of the beauties of the Catskill Mountains sunsets, and wrote many descriptive articles about the sunsets, which he signed "Sunset Charlie." I recall that many of these interesting articles were published in The Freeman.

Fraternally Mr. Safford was a member of Franklin Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and for years an active member of St. James Methodist Church.

Sleep Safe Patrol On

Following a long series of robberies and assaults in Johannesburg, South Africa, two retired business men have established a "Sleep Safe Patrol," to which several hundred residents will contribute. A large number of natives have been recruited to operate a shuttle-service on bicycles in the streets and when they notice anything suspicious, to immediately notify the nearest police station. Every house subscribing will be visited once an hour day and night.

Public Has Right to Know Whether Stenographic Report Was True, Whether President Disregarded His Oath of Office

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 3 — The American people have a right to ask whether the stenographic record issued by Messrs. Whitney and Johnston relative to their conversations on the railroad strike with President Truman and Dr. John R. Steelman is an accurate transcript and if so why the President disregarded his constitutional oath to execute faithfully the laws of the United States.

If a President can grant at will immunity from prosecution, and if he can overlook a law violation of major importance in exchange for an agreement to postpone a strike, then of what value are the new laws which the same President is asking Congress to adopt?

The railroad strike was a serious thing but, if the record given out by the railroad union chiefs is accurate, a far more serious thing has happened. The people have a right to expect the President and the Department of Justice to enforce the laws. Only Congress in the regular way can modify the laws. It is not within the power of the President or the attorney general to close their eyes to a violation of law or to participate in any scheme to evade the law and use it as a bargaining device in a labor negotiation. Here is an excerpt from the stenographic record which it is understood was made by means of a recording instrument at one end of the telephone on Saturday, May 18, just before the five-day truce was begun and one day after the government had seized the railroads:

"Whitney: This is Mr. Whitney, Mr. President. Can you give us assurance that you have talked with the railroads and are willing to do something definite?"

"President Truman: Yes. "Whitney: And, further, that in case we don't settle that the Smith-Connally Act will not be used against us?"

"President Truman: If you handle the matter in the manner suggested to you, why there is no possibility of your getting into trouble on that."

"Whitney: Our attorneys advised us if we postponed this strike for five days, we will say, and then we don't settle, and the strike goes on, that that might be considered a violation of the Smith-Connally Act."

"President Truman: I don't think it would be if you followed directions that Steelman has dictated to you."

"Whitney: And you will protect us with the attorney general, as far as you can?"

"President Truman: Yes. "Whitney: Well— "Johnston: That's a long way to go if you will do that."

"President Truman: I will. I have been trying to protect you. Subsequently in the conversation Dr. Steelman is quoted as having suggested that the railroad chiefs announce merely that they were moving the strike date, on the ground that the date of the violation strike date was not a would actually begin five or six days after the government was in possession of the railroad properties. The railroad unions had lawyers who though otherwise a careful reading of the law will show that their fears were well grounded but if, on the other hand, they had a promise from the White House of immunity from prosecution, they had no cause for worry."

Where was attorney general in all this? Was he consulted by the President before the curbstone opinion was rendered that by the simple device of "moving" a strike date the purpose and meaning of the Smith-Connally law could be nullified?

The White House should explain itself to the American people. For here is an issue that transcends strikes and political maneuvering or even economic damage. It goes to the root of law enforcement and character in the administration of the statutes. Mr. Truman is not a lawyer. Dr. Steelman is not a lawyer. The Constitution provides that the attorney general shall furnish legal opinions to the President of the United States. What did the attorney general do, indeed he was consulted at all, which being doubted hereabouts. It seems major importance could have been made without competent legal advice to the President. A straightforward explanation of what did happen is imperative even if it reveals a blunder for which the President acknowledges publicly his regret and accompanies it with assurances that he does not intend to give favorable political or otherwise, in enforcing the law. Has Whitney Got $47 Million? If So, Whose?

A. F. Whitney, leftist head of the D. C. Council of Railway Unionmen, said: "We pray the day will come when labor will assert its rights without being shackled by government."

The Daily World, official organ of the revolutionary Communist Party, on the west coast, said: "To whom should labor be responsible? . . . Labor is first of all responsible to its own members."

The Century Dictionary said sedition is "incitement of discontent or rebellion against the government."

I wonder if we should not at last have some legal action against Whitney and the Communists with whom he has been associated for years in numerous activities? Any juryman who could doubt at this late date that the motives and the actions of these men are seditious would be naive. The Communist Party as a matter of fact openly declared for revolution against this government at its convention in New York City last summer. In a revolution the government must act to preserve the Union.

The picture describes syndicalism as sabotage by use of an organized group of laborers. It may or may not resort to violence. In America syndicalism which commits sabotage is a crime. Why then should Whitney not be made to answer for his crime?

It is apparent that Whitney did not express the attitude of the membership of his union and of many a rival labor boss. Forward thinking labor leaders have either jumped all over him in interviews or have refused to give him moral support. Wellington Roe, chair-man of the National Rank and File Association of the Railway Brotherhoods, said Whitney and his puppet, Alvaney Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, have done "all labor damage it may take years to repair." But it will be hard for the members to break Whitney's strange hold on their union.

This incident brings us to a showdown with pro-Russian labor leaders throughout the labor movement—or so I hope. Labor membership without doubt is tired of this revolutionary talk by even of the Red C.I.O. have swallowed the inflammatory propaganda fed them. But how can they out-bosses as strongly entrenched as Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran?

How can members of Whitney's union get rid of him if he holds $47,000,000 of their money and has a gestapo of muscle men capable of intimidating and coercing any objector? The government must step in.

The money angle must not be overlooked. What business has Whitney with a $47,000,000 slush fund? Certainly no such amount is necessary for an administrative organization to promote legitimate labor interests. Perhaps Whitney has been holding it in reserve for political uses at a critical hour.

Maybe other Red union bosses are likewise salting away huge sums with which to help buy their way to power when they catch Uncle Sam napping. They should take a look into union funds and prohibit their accumulation for political bludgeoning hereafter. So complete has been the "ownership" of union finances by the labor dictators I doubt if many members even knew Whitney had such a wad tucked away.

Whitney has announced he will use $2,500,000 of this money immediately to fight senators and republicans. The whole $47,000,000 in 1948 if necessary to beat Truman—election laws be damned. Any laws be damned, if you ask Whitney.

No doubt the great majority of members of labor unions would welcome a law protecting them from taxation—which seems to be always without representation. Americans don't like that way of life: But here again they are under the heel of a gestapo powerful enough to drive them out of their jobs and perhaps their homes. Members know this kind of thing is enough to keep them in line. Why should have survived an outbreak against Hitler's machine?

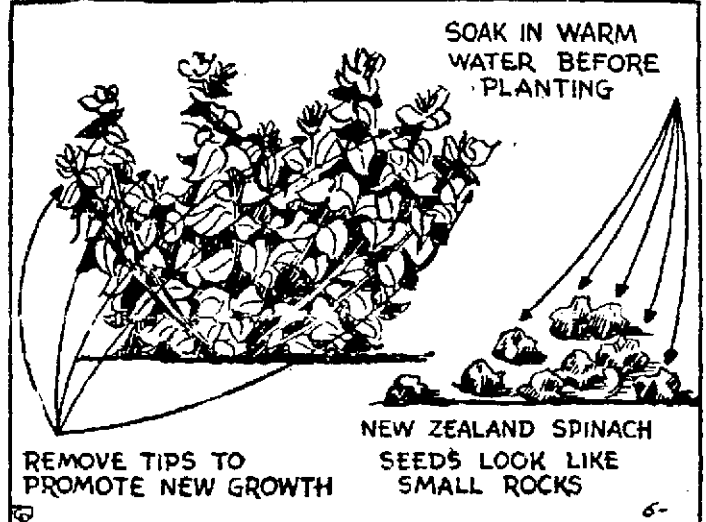

It gets us nowhere to look backward and remember who it was that encouraged this union mess— a man with the power of leadership to have steered union heads into a really great movement instead of aiding and abetting class warfare and giving legal standing to dictators in labor. Robert Velt's henchman, Senator Wagner, is still on the scene and for having shown political and social arson it will be only poetic justice if his constituents burn down his political house as this country moves to take the fascist out of unions.

In spite of the stream of hate propaganda poured daily into groups of employees, I believe management can take over much of the leadership of industrial relations by taking their employees into their business in one way or another. Work out a profit-sharing plan which will give them substantial increases in earnings—and as the workers boost the earnings of the company. If we believe in private enterprise, then should reward initiative, we should reward store to every workkeeper and pick-and-shovel man the right to earn according to his merits. Then call employees into a huddle frequently and discuss objectives and methods, profitable operations and costly ones; get everybody interested and keep them that way.

Some unions will fight this hard particularly those who have depended on class hatred to give them discipline over their masses but thoughtful labor leaders will be willing to go along with the plan.

Legislation and legal action will have to take professional agitators off the backs of honest labor and honest management; but when the share-the-profits plan is put into use on a sincere and intelligent basis there will be less need for laws. (Copyright 1946 by John F. Dill Co.)

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

'Spinach That Is Not Spinach'

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

SPINACH does not grow well in wet weather. It becomes tough and in July and August forms flower stalks and goes to seed quickly.

For this reason, wise gardeners plant the so-called New Zealand spinach often in addition to regular spinach.

New Zealand spinach is not a true spinach but is a very satisfactory substitute. It thrives in warm weather and will not become tough at any time.

One can have a continuous supply of summer greens from New Zealand spinach if one harvests just the tips and succulent leaves, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

If only four or five inches are removed from the tips of the leaves as fast as they develop, new growth will continue to appear throughout the season. New Zealand spinach has a more open growth than plain spinach. For this reason it does not collect as much sand or dirt and thus it is easier to clean.

Plant the seed of New Zealand spinach one inch deep in rows three feet apart, and thin the plants to stand at least 18 inches apart in the rows. Since it is a "cut and come again" vegetable, one row of the plants is usually enough for a small family.

The seeds are odd-shaped and rough looking, as illustrated. They are as hard as little stones, which they resemble, and because they germinate slowly they should be soaked in warm water for several hours before planting.

China's Peace Hope Focuses on Harbin

Nanking, June 3 (AP)—China's hope for peace focused on the government's drive toward Harbin today as American Envoy General Marshall sought anew to bring about a truce in the increasingly critical Manchurian civil war.

Marshall's new plan, a reliable Chinese source said, called for abandonment of the government army advance on Communist-held Harbin and Tsitsihar, Communist evacuation of the two cities and maintenance of the status-quo of all government and Communist forces.

Temporary administrative officials for the two evacuated Manchurian cities would be named pending the setting up of permanent Communist administrations.

Little hope was held out, however, that the peace plan would be accepted by either side, although a government source admitted it was "workable."

The final drive on Harbin, which national forces set up by crossing over the week-end to the north bank of the little Sungari river, can have "only one result—full scale civil war," the Chinese source observed. Government sources said their forces would reach Harbin within a few days.

In 1901, a man was arrested at Warren, O., on a charge of having driven his car 40 miles an hour in the city streets.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD BE TOLD -

Women who douche should certainly know about this effective "bacteriostatic" douche which kills E. coli, gonorrhea, trichomonas, and other vaginal infections. It is especially effective for the treatment of vaginitis, leucorrhea, and other vaginal conditions. It is also useful for the treatment of urinary tract infections. It is a powerful antiseptic and disinfectant. It is a must for every woman's health.

Hunts Return With Circus

Charles T. Hunt, who left Kingston 54 years ago with his first circus, is back today to renew acquaintances and present a genuine three-ring show at Walker's show grounds, formerly Powell's field, across the Washington avenue viaduct.

Talking with friends at the showgrounds yesterday, after the circus cars rolled in, Mr. Hunt said he was glad to be back in the old home town, and promised that his three sons, Charles, Jr., Harry and Eddie, had a full program for presentation today and tomorrow. Matinees are scheduled for 2 o'clock and evening performances at 8.

Mr. Hunt joined the Great P. T. Barnum Circus at the age of 12, playing with the Rivers Troupe, but left to start out on his own seven years later. From a humble beginning he ran his show into a three-ring affair. Retiring in 1942, he turned the circus over to his three sons. However, he still travels with them in an advisory capacity.

"We present all of the features that go to make up an entertaining three-ring circus," Mr. Hunt told a reporter as he displayed a program sheet that contained the names of well-known bareback riders, wire-walkers, acrobats, tumblers, also trainers of horses, seals, elephants, dogs and other animals. Clowns with special features for the children are on the program too.

Kerhonkson High School Students Elect Officers

Kerhonkson, June 1—At the election of student officers for next year, at the Kerhonkson High School last week, Frank Green was chosen to head the Student Council, assisted by Frank Coddington as vice-president. All withdrawals or deposits from class treasurers will be cleared through the council treasurer, Virginia Decker. Natalie Davenport, at present a freshman, will be in charge of each meeting's minutes and correspondence for the council, as secretary.

The Student Council regulates the affairs of the student body and is elected by the students. During the past year, the council sponsored basketball games, various club activities, a magazine subscription campaign and a Red Cross drive.

Class Officers Elected

The election of class officers was carried out by the student body last week. For the coming senior year Frank Schordine was elected class president. He will be assisted by Margaret Neff, vice-president; James Allison, secretary; Miriam Brown, treasurer and Mildred Whitten, class representative on the Student Council.

HIGHLAND

Highland, June 1—Miss Nancy Rathgeb, a senior at Middlebury College, Vermont, came down to attend the Conn-Richards wedding Saturday afternoon.

Postmaster and Mrs. Nathan D. Williams entertained at a supper party Thursday evening for the latter's mother, Mrs. Jennie Abrams, who is observing her 89th birthday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Haviland, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Quimby, Marlborough; Mr. and Mrs. A. Winthrop Williams.

The Rev. and Mrs. Frederick A. Schimmer and sons spent Wednesday with friends at Charlton.

Guests of Assemblyman and Mrs. John F. Wadlin Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hasbrouck, Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hasbrouck, daughter and son, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck and Miss Laura Harcourt.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Relyea and daughter are occupying their apartment on Maple avenue.

Mrs. Lorin E. Osterhout is chairman of the committee for the meeting of the W.S.C.S. June 7 in the Methodist Church. Working with her are Mrs. Edward Rhodes, Mrs. Lorin Schantz, Mrs. Herbert Schofield, Mrs. Josiah Schoonmaker.

The Rev. Herbert Greenland returned to the Methodist church, will have as his sermon subject Sunday, June 3, "I Am My Brother's Keeper." Results will be announced on the financial campaign in progress. There will be a meeting of the official board Tuesday evening. The Sunday school will observe Children's Day June 9. Parents wishing to have children baptized are asked to get in touch with the Rev. Mr. Greenland at once. Children up to the age of 11 may be baptized at this service.

Mrs. Foster A. Root and daughter of Binghamton arrived Wednesday evening for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Rose Seaman.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Martin G. Schantz, Miss June Schantz of Highland, Mr. and Mrs. Cluett Schantz, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Carpenter of Marlborough attended the wedding of Miss Ann Sundstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olof Sundstrom to George Richardson Faulkner Saturday at West Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Sundstrom was a resident here at one time and has many relatives here.

Frederick Bradshaw arrived at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gedney, Wednesday. Mr. Bradshaw drove from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was connected with the radio station.

Mrs. Rose Seaman was in Bogota, N. J., Saturday to attend the wedding and reception in Congress of a grandniece.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wadlin and daughters Elizabeth and Diane spent Sunday at Molokai Lake.

Victor Clearwater is convalescing at his home, from his recent sudden illness.

Country Must Be On Guard, General Tells Reserves

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Talk of "how, where and why the next war will be fought" is branded "vicious" by General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Addressing the 20th annual national convention of the Reserve Officers' Association Sunday, Eisenhower asserted:

"Such talk is more than foolish; it is vicious. Men acquainted with the battlefield will not be found among the number that glibly talk of another war."

"Veterans will work and sweat and sacrifice to prevent the recurrence of such a tragedy."

The army chief of staff advised that until the United Nations can guarantee international peace this country must stay in a position to guard its own security.

Forget the Grandstand
"Have you any idea what the habit of cooperation is worth to you? What it means to your business? ... to YOUR OWN success? It's well worth thinking about, because cooperation opens up the way for us. It sweeps aside things that block us. Cooperation is team-work ... pulling together. It makes things click—takes off the brakes—lets things go ahead."

"Knute Rockne once told a Notre Dame squad: 'Not one of you fellows is anywhere near as good as he can be unless he has forgotten the grandstand to WORK WITH THE TEAM.'"

"Rockie knew that team-work—cooperation—makes even the poorest players show up better. Without it, even great stars can't get going. He taught his boys cooperation as the best road to their own successful playing. They are still doing it as successful professional players, coaches and businessmen."

"Cooperation is behind the success of almost everybody. To get what we want ourselves we must cooperate. Cooperation wins warm friends—invites raises and promotions. If we don't give it, we don't get it."

"Men are made for cooperation. They must work together, like hands and feet, like upper and lower teeth."

"If you want success, forget the grandstand—cooperate. Use every chance to help someone else."

A local business man, checking over the references given by a job applicant, wrote to Boston to get information. The Boston man replied with a long letter tracing the young man's ancestry back to John Alden.

"Thank you for your interest," the local man wrote back. "But we wanted the young man for business, not breeding purposes."

Aqueduct Opens Today

New York, June 3 (AP)—Aqueduct opens the first week of its 15-day summer meeting at Belmont today when Theodore Knapp, president of the Queens County Jockey Club, expects racing will be staged at the home course next Monday. Labor troubles and shortage of materials delayed renovation work at Aqueduct, forcing a "temporary" move to Belmont which finished its spring meet Saturday.

The St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season favorites in the National League, may wind up among the also-rans because of their inability to win at home.

Including yesterday's double loss to the New York Giants, which dropped them three and a half games behind pace-setting Brooklyn, the Redbirds have won only six of 15 games at Sportsman's Park—a percentage of .400, and fully 190 points below their over-all pace.

Failure of the Cards to win at home has the baseball sages puzzled since the Redbirds have been little short of sensational on the road where they've triumphed in 17 of 24 contests. In eastern parks, they've dropped only two games in nine and have whipped the league leading Dodgers twice in two encounters.

In sharp contrast to the Cards, the Browns have won 15 and lost only five at home.

Ex-Mates Do Damage

A pair of former mates—Bobby Blattner and Walker Cooper—beat the Cardinals yesterday. Blattner scored the only run as the Giants won the opener, 1-0. Then he homered in the 11th inning of the nightcap to give the New Yorkers a 7-6 decision. Earlier in the afternoon, Walker Cooper, slammed a home run with the bases full.

One run was all big Bill Voiselle needed as he became the first hurler to blank the Cards this year. Howie Pollet, who previously had whipped the Giants in nine of 10 meetings, matched Voiselle in every inning but the third. Here he gave up consecutive singles to Blattner, Goody Rosen and Willard Marshall which netted the all-important tally.

Getting superlative pitching from its so-called secondary hurlers—Les Webber, Art Herring and Hugh Casey—Brooklyn gained two full games on the Cards by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, and 1-0 before 32,391 paying fans, the largest Crosley Field gathering of the season.

Webber, although he needed help from southpaw Vic Lombardi, out-hurled Ed Heusser in the 11-inning opener. A lead-off triple by Galan and a single by Ed Stevens accounted for the winning run. The same two collaborated to bring in the Dodgers first run in the sixth. Substituted second baseman Bobby Adams' sixth inning homer saved the Reds from a shutout.

Herring pitched hitless ball for five innings in the second game before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth after putting a muscle in his arm. Casey continued the runless flinging, allowing only four hits. John Hettki pitched admirable ball for the Reds but a first inning walk to Ed Stanky, an infield out and Dixie Walker's run-producing single beat him.

Newhouse Fans 18

In the only American League game—the others having been rained out—the Detroit Tigers whalloped Washington's Senators 10-2 as Hal Newhouse fanned 13. The brilliant Bengali southpaw doled out eight hits in becoming the first Major League pitcher to win nine games. He fanned every Senator batter at least once; twice he whiffed four men in a row. Tiger outfielder Dick Wakefield, showing signs of snapping out of his season-long slump, slammed out four hits, including two doubles.

The Chicago Cubs split with Boston's Braves to move into a third place tie with the Reds. The Braves, with Mort Cooper notching his third win, won the opener, 6-3, and the Cubs captured the nightcap, 8-2 behind Claude Passeau, who registered his fourth victory.

Pittsburgh had to be satisfied with a split in its twin bill with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Pirates copped the opener 5-1 as Rip Sewell, returning to action for the first time since his collapse on May 5, held the Phils to four safeties. A seven-run seventh inning won the finale for the Phils 10-3.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Ed Stevens and Dixie Walker, Dodgers—Stevens drove in both runs against Cincinnati in 11 innings today; Walker singled home Ed Stanky for 1-0 triumph in afternoon.

Bill Voiselle, and Bobby Blattner, Giants—Voiselle outpitched St. Louis' Howie Pollett 1-0; Blattner smashed 11th inning home run to win nightcap 7-6.

Phil Masi, Braves and Marvin Rickert, Cubs—Masi's three-run homer beat Cubs 6-3; Rickert batted in five runs to give Cubs nightcap 8-2.

Rip Sewell, Pirates and Del Ennis, Phillies—Sewell celebrated return to mound by beating Phils 5-1 on four hits; in second game, Ennis batted in three runs with a single and double and scored once as Phils won 10-3.

Hai Newhouse, Tigers—fanned 13 and beat Senators 10-2 as he became first major league hurler to win nine games.

Johnson 'Loses Ground'

Washington, June 3 (AP)—"Condition unchanged" was the report today on Walter Johnson, seriously ill with a brain tumor. Physicians at Georgetown Hospital said yesterday that the one-time pitching ace had "lost ground in the last 24 hours."

BOWLING

MIXED SUMMER LEAGUE

With Johnny Ferraro leading the way with his 553 triple, the Police Dogs took over undisputed possession of first place in the Mixed Summer League last week by winning three straight from the Bull Dogs. The Scotties dropped to second by losing two out of three to the Great Danes despite hefty scores by Jim Daniels and Evelyn Francis.

Ferraro lashed out with a string of 184, 203 and 168 to pace his squad to the clean sweep. J. Altmore followed Johnny with a 513. Rose and Johnny Schatzel peppered out 531 and 527 triples for the losers. Rose also had high single of the match with her 212.

Bud Evans, anchor for the Great Danes, paced his club to a pair of wins over the Scotties, with a solid 543 three-time. Evans posted scores of 174, 207 and 162. Daniels and Evelyn Francis were high for the losing club with 536 and 534. Daniels also posted a 203 solo in his middle game.

The Greyhounds captured two from the Cocker Spaniels behind Charlie Horne's 559 triple. Evelyn Moore registered 513 and E. Radell hit 508. In the winners, Evelyn Moore's 212 single was high in the match. Marge Jansen led her team with 504.

In the only other match the Whippets finally found the range and notched two victories over the Terriers. Johnny Sangi experienced one of his rare bad nights with a 484 to lead the Whippets. Don Sickler's 482 was high for the Terriers.

THE PERFECT ANSWER

There are few occasions when "Thank you" is less than the perfect reply. However, this detail is questioned in the following letter: "The other day when I met the head of my husband's company for the second time and we exchanged a few words, he said upon leaving, 'I was very nice to see you again.' I simply answered, 'Thank you.' My husband thought this was the wrong reply but his criticism is of no use because he could tell me nothing that I should have said in place of what I did. Will you please tell me?"

In this, as in almost every other situation, your answer could not have been more perfect—taking it for granted that you said it with warmth of tone.

Conversation with Future Father-in-Law

Dear Mrs. Post: When a young man has been seeing a young woman for several years and their eventual engagement is a foregone conclusion, is it necessary that he ask her parents' consent? "Asking the parents' consent" does have a ceremonial connotation, but certainly he should make a point of choosing a moment when happening to see her father by himself to tell him something about the plans he and Mary are hoping to make.

No Rule for This Question

Dear Mrs. Post: When a small fork is served, as it invariably is in a restaurant, with lobster, may the same fork be used to eat the vegetables and the French fried potatoes or should the small fork be put down and the large one picked up for them? It is rather awkward to be changing from one fork to the other, but evidently one is expected to do this. Why else are two forks provided?

Thank-You Notes

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it customary and proper to write thank-you notes to friends who served as pallbearers at my father's funeral? If so, please give us an example of what to write.

Answer: It is customary to write thank-you notes for this service alone. If any of the pallbearers sent flowers to the house and shown personal kindness, then a few words or thanks written across the top of a visiting card is required—if you have not thanked them verbally.

Correct forms for letter writing are found in Mrs. Post's booklet "The Etiquette of Letter Writing," obtainable for 10 cents in coin and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Woman Found Ill At Traver Hollow Dies in Hospital

Ida Fraser Is Pneumonia
Victim; Brother Died for Lack of Attention

Miss Ida Fraser, 87, of Traver Hollow, died Sunday in the Kingston Hospital of pneumonia. She had been a patient in the hospital since she was found critically ill in her home where her brother, Philip H. Fraser, lay dead, on May 10.

The aged couple had lived at Traver Hollow for a number of years and the first intimation the sheriff's office had of their plight was when an attempt was made to obtain the services of a physician.

Deputies from the sheriff's office went to the home and when they found the brother dead, had called Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, who pronounced death due to a heart attack.

The sister was rushed to the hospital in the Conner ambulance. Funeral services for Miss Fraser will be held from the funeral home of Ernest A. Kelly, 111 West Chester street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my appreciation to my neighbors, friends and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Active Hose Co. for the many expressions of sympathy extended during my recent bereavement.

Group of Children
Guests of Hunt's Circus

A group of underprivileged children from all sections of the city, some 40 or 50 in all, are today enjoying that perhaps greatest of all treats for a youngster, a trip to the circus.

Through the kind cooperation of Mr. Hunt and the generosity of Kingston's citizens who preferred to remain anonymous, the young people this afternoon took in the opening performance of Hunt's Circus. The circus is showing in Kingston for two days, on the Powell lot grounds, across the viaduct.

June Week Begins

West Point, N. Y., June 3 (AP)—More than 800 alumni of the U. S. Military Academy joined today with 875 members of this year's graduating class—largest in history—in traditional June Week celebrations. Led by the hero of Bataan, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, class of 1906, and Col. George H. Morgan, 91, class of 1880, of Washington, D. C., the academy's oldest alumnus, the alumni marched to a ceremony at Thayer Monument this morning. Secretary of War Patterson will address the graduating class tomorrow at exercises concluding June Week.

Sentence Suspended

Joseph Schatzel of Furnace street, arrested last week on a charge of disorderly conduct at his home, was sentenced to 60 days in jail when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court today. Serving of the jail sentence was suspended provided he left Kingston before 7 o'clock this evening.

Financial and Commercial

By VICTOR EUBANK

New York, June 3 (AP)—Stocks, with scattered exceptions, inclined to slip today after holding to an irregularly higher course in the early proceedings.

Customers returned from the long week-end with bullish enthusiasm apparently chilled a bit by the persistent cloudiness of labor skies and the feeling that the bulge of the averages to 15-year peaks called for a technical correction. The wage-price spiral brought some further inflation hedging although this was notably timid.

Liquidating pressure was lacking from the start, with the tickers frequently idling. Declines of fractions to a point or more predominated near the fourth hour.

On the outside most of the day were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Woolworth, Boeing, International Harvester, North American, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Anaconda, Texas Co. and Hiram Walker.

American Telephone edged to a new top at 200. Resistant to a new high were American Water Works, Great Northern Standard Oil (N. Y.), and Johns-Manville.

Bonds were steady and cotton futures improved.

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Grain futures trading on the Chicago board of trade was held up for an hour and a half today while a broker unsuccessfully sought an injunction against regulations which reversed previous rulings governing ceilings on old grain contracts.

Newsom Is Released

Philadelphia, June 3 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics gave their leading pitcher Bobo Newsom an unconditional release today at his own request. The 37-year-old hurler, who has won three and lost five this season, denied he is bound for the Mexican League, declaring he "hopes to have better luck with another club." "I think a change will do me good," said Bobo. "I'm no longer a trying sized chicken. I'm getting along in years and I want to make the best of the seasons I have left."

Car Forced Off Road Overtakes, None Hurt

Sunday afternoon the Oldsmobile sedan owned and operated by Dr. Evelyn Borg, 51, of Forest Hills, overturned on a curve on Route 55 between Ardona and Clintondale.

State Trooper E. P. Johnson of the Highland barracks made an investigation and found the car was being operated hastily on Route 55. Dr. Borg reported that an unidentified car had forced her off the macadam to the soft shoulder of the road and she then lost control of the car which turned over on its top. The car was towed to a Poughkeepsie garage.

Tied to Labor Disputes

Meanwhile, the fate of this legislation remained closely tied in with the long-range case labor disputes bill which Congress sent to the President last week.

Several administration spokesmen on Capitol Hill have said they expect the President to veto the measure. The author, Representative Case (R-S.D.), commented, however, that "it is inconceivable to me" that the Chief Executive would reject it.

Supporters of the Case bill are planning to oppose further action on the President's emergency legislation until he acts on the for-mer.

Their strategy is to prevent, if possible, a situation which would permit Mr. Truman to veto the more far-reaching Case bill while signing his own temporary measure.

Fourteen Graduate At Academy of St. Ursula Sunday

The Rev. Charles Reilly, C.S.S.R., urged the graduates of the Academy of St. Ursula to follow the principles of character as well as the academic knowledge which they had received at the academy, as he spoke in the annual commencement exercises Sunday afternoon. Fourteen were graduated at the ceremonies.

Their success in having completed their education at the academy carried with it the responsibility of living up to the education they had received. The Rev. Father Reilly remarked. He reminded the graduates that the education at the academy was based on religion with the primary purpose to mold character.

Awards and diplomas were presented to the students by the Very Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, P.R., V.F. In speaking to the class of 1946 he said that the serious days in which they are living prevented him from putting before the graduates the hope of their going out into the world to secure a good living, the assurance of a comfortable future. He said, "You are going out into the world to fight for your lives in a moral combat against the exponents of falsehood in all spheres of activity—business, politics, education. The lines between falsehood and truth are clearly drawn and one must either remain true to conscience and right principle or join the ranks of falsehood and injustice."

He referred to the recent radio address of Pope Pius XII, and said that nations must now choose to continue the Christian way of life or choose a materialistic state without religion and without God. Members of the class who merited diplomas and gold medals were the Misses Roseann Crosby, Jane Anne Forst, Louis Haynes, Natalie Ann Murray, Lillian Styles, with honor; Justyn Hallinan, Catharine Keely, Gloria Mooney, Victoria Nozzeny, Mary Shurter with credit; Irene Janakis, Catherine Lodge, Alice Ruzzo and Frances Witkowski.

Two Are Injured In Auto Accident

Car Skids At Port Ewen Hits Trees, Pole; Jumps Curb

Despite hazardous driving weather and a better than normal flow of traffic, no serious automobile accidents occurred in Ulster county over the weekend, the sheriff's office said today.

The most serious of these mishaps occurred about 12:45 Saturday afternoon at Port Ewen when a 1936 Buick driven by Martin O'Jea of Jersey City skidded on the wet pavement, hit two trees, a telephone pole, then ricocheted across the road, mounted the curb and came to a stop at the front steps of a residence.

Riding with O'Jea were his wife, Angela O'Jea; a daughter, Lolita O'Jea; his aunt, Aurora Rodriguez, and another passenger, Anthony Rodriguez, all of Jersey City. The car was going south when the accident occurred.

Miss Lolita O'Jea and Aurora Rodriguez suffered slight injuries and were taken to the Kingston Hospital by Comer's ambulance. They were released after emergency treatment. The others escaped injury. The others escaped injury. The others escaped injury.

The O'Jea car was badly damaged but was able to proceed to Jersey City under its own power.

Robert Earl Hunt, of 72 Prince Street, Kingston, reported to the sheriff's office that his car skidded off the Woodstock-Hurley road about 1:15 this morning and knocked over a concrete post, picket fence and stone wall on the Lydia Russell property. Hunt said he was blinded by the light of an oncoming car. The front end of his car was damaged slightly. Hunt was riding alone when the accident occurred.

First Two Days of June Are Chilly and Rainy

Chilly temperatures and rain marked the first two days of June in Kingston on Saturday and Sunday, with the official city thermometer registering a low of 45 to a high of 55 degrees in the city.

The total precipitation of rain during the two days, according to the city engineer's records, was .64 inches.

Last night chilly temperatures continued to prevail with a low of 41 degrees being recorded by the city thermometer.

287 Persons Die In Holiday Period; Crashes Kill 159

(By The Associated Press) Although 159 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the four day Memorial Day holiday. The number fell far short of the National Safety Council's forecast of 329.

A total of 287 persons met violent deaths in the four days which ended last midnight, compared with 327 in the last four day Memorial Day observance, in 1944.

Drownings accounted for 74 fatalities. The remaining 54 lost their lives by such various mishaps as shootings, stabbings, fires and plane crashes.

Pennsylvania's toll of 37 was more than double any other state. Parts of Pennsylvania were washed by floods, creating hazardous driving conditions, and 19 deaths resulted from traffic accidents.

California had the next highest toll—18, including traffic fatalities. New York had 8 traffic, 2 drownings, and one miscellaneous deaths.

Selective Service Sends Two Groups To Albany Today

Kingston's Selective Service Board today sent two contingents to Albany, one for the armed forces and the other for pre-induction physical examinations.

The group for immediate induction into the armed forces was made up of two men, the smallest group sent to Albany in many months by the draft board.

The two were James P. Pruden, Jr., and Harry A. Berryman.

The pre-induction group of 26 men was headed by Frank J. Egan as leader, and Clarence S. Herdman as assistant leader.

French Reds Lose As Middle-Road Gains Are Listed

Socialists Receive Sharper Defeat Than Others

Colonial Returns Discounted

Paris, June 3 (AP)—French Communists received their second setback within a month today as returns from yesterday's election for a new constituent assembly showed that the middle-of-the-road popular Republican movement had become the nation's strongest political party.

Socialists took an even sharper defeat than the Communists, as the political pendulum swung away from the left, continuing the trend noted in the May 5 referendum when a Communist-Socialist constitution was rejected.

Although returns still had not been received from the colonies, which hold 60-odd seats, the M.R.P. was assured of at least 10 more seats than it held in the last assembly and at least one more seat than the Communists previously held in the ministry of the interior said.

Complete but unofficial returns from France and Corsica, as announced by the ministry, showed: M.R.P. 160 seats, compared with 150 in the last assembly.

Communists 145, compared with 159.

Republican Liberals 59, compared with 64.

Republican Rally (Radical-Social) 43, compared with 60.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
A. P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The government of Bombay has declared a state of emergency in its central mid district as the result of further bloody clashes between caste Hindus and the lowly "Untouchables" — or outcasts — whose every presence is supposed to defile their betters.

The fresh disturbances would seem to have their inception in the belief among many Untouchables that the British government's new proposals for Indian independence don't make adequate provision for this depressed class.

Former British Prime Minister Churchill, as leader of the Conservative Party, has received a protest from an Indian group, declaring that the government's program is a "shameful betrayal" of the Untouchables' cause, and has called that his party will do its utmost to protect them. He adds: "We shall take our stand on the broad principles set forth in the American Declaration of Independence, that all men are born free and equal and entitled to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness."

Actually the government's proposals do include provision for a bill of rights in the projected constitution to protect the Untouchables. However, I know from personal investigation in India that these unhappy folk want to be established in communities of their own so that they may escape a life that is worse than death, and achieve the status of human beings.

Affects Entire Structure

The world has known few tragedies so terrible as that of India's 60,000,000 Untouchables who for centuries have been condemned by the Hindu caste system to live as pariahs. That system with its innumerable ramifications permeates the whole structure of Indian society.

God made the Untouchables like other men, but caste challenges the Almighty and places this depressed class without the pale of human rights. They live outside villages of caste Hindus and perform the most menial tasks for their masters. Yet I've visited some of these pitiful people and have found them kindly folk who strive mightily to overcome their awful handicap and make as good homes as they can.

In order to get the full significance of this you must know that there are in India 700,000 villages, unbelievable though that figure may seem. These villages are divided into two sections. There is the part inhabited by the caste class, and outside that is the settlement of untouchables representing about a tenth of the population.

The untouchables have no economic independence. They have no land and are dependent on the regular village for life. Because they are untouchable they can eke out an existence only by performing the lowest tasks. Under the code they are compelled to wear dirty clothing. They can't get water from the village well but must find it elsewhere. And so the horrid story of oppression runs.

One Is Distinguished

Despite the handicap, an untouchable is one of the distinguished men of India. He is Dr. Ambedkar, who is champion of his people. His father was in the Indian army during a period when untouchables were allowed to become soldiers, and so the son got a start on education. The late Gaekwar of Baroda, princely humanitarian, sent the young man to Columbia University in New York where Ambedkar obtained his doctorate.

I had a long talk with Dr. Ambedkar in his fine home in Delhi in 1943, and he told me his solution for the untouchable problem. It was this:

"All these scattered settlements of untouchables should be moved and regrouped into villages of their own. There is a lot of free land in India which can be cultivated. The government should provide the money and in 20 years the change could be made. We want to escape from perpetual slavery to the Hindus."

"This plan would abolish untouchability. . . . That's what we want in the new constitution (this was three years ago). . . . We look to America to come to our rescue in the settlement of the Indian question."

been put up and things were secured for the night and there was a prospect of a fine week-end and the Scouts built their camp fires and prepared for a good time. Friday night there was held field services for those of the Jewish faith and on Sunday morning at 9:15 those who had remained at camp held their field services as scheduled.

Father A. A. Donaghy of Saugerties conducted the services for those of the Catholic faith and the Rev. Mr. Westhof of Blue Mountain conducted the Protestant service.

Rain Saturday night did not dampen the spirits of some of the boys and there were seven camp fires burning. Around the fires were gathered numerous groups and there was group singing and a show.

Because of the rain the court of honor which had been scheduled for Sunday was postponed and arrangements are now being made to set up a special district court of honor at which time the badges will be presented.

While no Cubs were permitted to camp out over night, several Cubs did visit the camp and there were a number of parents who visited the camp.

Divers Join the Search For 22 in Plane Crash

Naples, June 3 (AP)—Deep sea divers joined a search today for the bodies of 22 missing persons aboard a U. S. Army transport plane which plunged into the sea near here Saturday while en route to the United States from India.

Only eight persons were rescued from the four-engine ship, which a survivor said caught fire in the air. The bodies of eight others were recovered from the sea after the crash.

around which part of the prosecution's case is to be built.

Navy Capt. Beverly M. Coleman, Washington, D.C., chief of the American defense section, told the tribunal that Japanese and newly arrived American counsel needed two weeks to three months to prepare adequately for the trial. The prosecution, the defense noted, has had six months "and hundreds of assistants, investigators and experts."

The court studied the plea for some time before allowing 10 days. It dismissed quickly and bluntly, however, the defense motion to dismiss charges against the defendants. Chief Justice Sir William Webb brushed aside a prosecution reply with the comment "We do not care to hear from you, Mr. Chief Prosecutor," and immediately announced the rejection of the motion.

It evidently was the last chance of the prisoners to escape trial, court officials observed; the court earlier had rejected defense challenges of the tribunal's jurisdiction and of the legal scope of the indictments.

Seek $3,000 Fund for New Paltz Celebration

A general committee headed by Gordon Pine, with Lewis H. Vandemark as secretary and Henry W. DuBois as treasurer, is making an appeal for a fund of $3,000 to finance a Veterans' Home-Coming Celebration to be held at New Paltz July 4.

The celebration will be under the leadership of the American Legion and is designed to do honor to the more than 300 men who entered the service of their country from the communities of Ardenia, Clintondale, Gardiner, Modena, New Paltz and Rifton in the period from 1940 to 1946.

Plans envision a celebration that will be worthy of the men in whose honor it is being arranged. The program as now arranged includes:
